

Crete

Crete occupies the most southerly point in Europe and offers everything for a perfect Mediterranean holiday: golden beaches, sparkling waters, stunning scenery, and a richly diverse culture and history.

Crete is the largest of the Greek islands and has the feeling of a country within a country. Cretans are welcoming, hospitable and fiercely proud of their island's history; Crete is home to the world's greatest showcase of Minoan artefacts and several Minoan palace complexes.

OUR RESORTS

Agios Nikolaos enjoys a sparkling setting within Mirabello Bay. Behind the town's harbour, Lake Voulismeni is the focal point of the town. A number of tavernas decorate the lakeshore. To the north of Agios Nikolaos lies Elounda. Home to some very fine hotels, it boasts a large harbour bordered by shops and tavernas. The bay of sand and shingle beaches is well protected by the Spinalonga Peninsula and is popular for watersports. In the picturesque fishing port of Sissi, life unfolds at a gentle pace. The pier is lined by colourful fishing boats, and there are many seafront tavernas in which to sample the freshest catch of the day.

Hersonissos boasts a long coarse sand beach backed by hotels, restaurants, tavernas and boutiques, and lively nightlife in the summer. Gouves features sugar cube houses and tiny churches within a maze of cobbled streets built into the side of Mount Ederi. There's a village square and some lovely views over Kato seafront. Rethymnon Town boasts a long, gently sloping, sandy beach. Crete's third largest town is vibrant, and the charming old quarter a maze of narrow streets and alleyways. There's an enchanting harbour. Close to Chania, Agioi Apostoloi is a tiny village in a secluded location on a gorgeous beach. Kolymbari is a pretty fishing village caught between cliffs and sea. Stalida is known for its shallow waters and family friendly beach. A hiking trail leads from Stalida to the quaint mountain village of Mochos. Platanias is a small village with a long sandy beach and busy bars, tavernas and restaurants.

SPINALONGA

The rocky island of Spinalonga dominates the entrance to Elounda Bay. Its impressive 16th century fortifications were built by the Venetians in defence against the Turks, and at the beginning of the 20th century it was home to lepers. A visit today is a poignant reminder of those less enlightened times.

ARCHAEOLOGICAL MUSEUMS

Secrets of the advanced and highly cultured Minoans, including the legend of the Minotaur, are revealed at the Archaeological Museum in Heraklion whilst in Chania you'll find a wide collection of Neolithic and Minoan artefacts as well as treasures of the late Roman period.

KNOSSOS MINOAN PALACE

Home to the oldest civilisation on European soil and undiscovered until the beginning of the 20th century, the Palace of Knossos is a labyrinthine ruin dating back nearly 4000 years.

SAMARIA GORGE

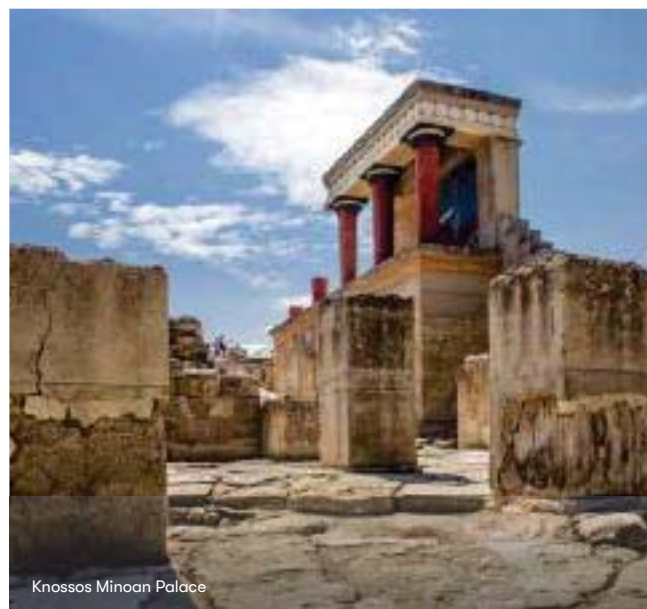

The longest gorge in Europe, Samaria is an exhilarating visitor spectacle, if not for the faint-hearted, covering 18km of spectacular landscape and scenery.

MOUNT IDA AND GORTYNA

Mount Ida is the highest mountain on the island and considered the childhood home of Zeus. Part of the E4 European walking path, the mountain is perfect for hiking in beautiful nature and discovering small mountain villages. Located south of Mount Ida, Gortyna is a Greco-Roman archaeological site and at its peak, during the Hellenistic era, was the most powerful and prosperous city of the island.

OUR EXPERTS SUGGEST

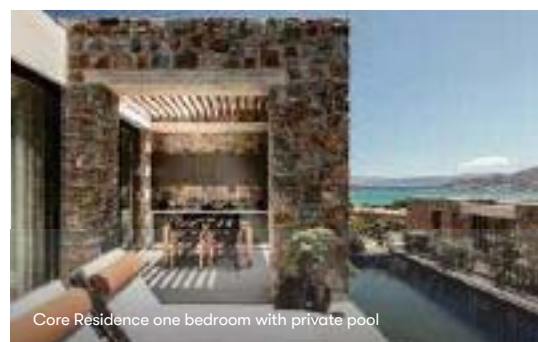

History and culture lovers might like to combine Athens (page 90) and Crete. Visit the ancient sites and museums of the Greek capital before exploring the remains of Crete's Minoan civilisation. This twin centre holiday takes advantage of the frequent flights between Athens and Crete.
